

DEPENDABLE, AGGRESSIVE, EXPERIENCED

From age 8, John McCabe wanted to become a lawyer. That desire never wavered. He decided to represent injured people and their families after initially working for an insurance defense firm. "I realized that good, honest people needed someone to fight for them," says McCabe. He also loves to litigate. It was the courtroom that drew him to the law in the first place.

More than 20 years later, his success in and out of the courtroom is well known. The award-winning litigator wrote the opening chapter in the best-selling book Personal Injury Practice in North Carolina, used by lawyers throughout the state. He frequently speaks at CLE seminars, and he has been recognized on the North Carolina Super Lawyers list for several years.

Lawyers throughout the state and country refer cases to him involving vehicular and on-the-job accidents, wrongful death, workers' compensation, premises liability and nursing home negligence. "We tend to handle cases that are not run-of-the-mill," he says. "We enjoy these challenges and we work hard every day. In the end, our motto remains the same: Be an advocate, be ethical and get results."
